Successful Saves!

Doofus' Story

A sweet one-year-old domestic shorthair cat named Doofus arrived at Carol Stream Animal Hospital unable to urinate. He was treated medically but became obstructed again several days later. His condition required urgent surgical intervention. His family could not afford the surgery after having paid for all the emergency bills to unblock Doofus. Doofus' owners were also facing financial hardships due to one of his owner's medical conditions and the other's recent passing. Doofus' owner felt defeated having to make the decision to put Doofus down due to financial limitations. But she discovered that Dr. Contreras and his organization had raised funds to help save pets just like Doofus. Doofus underwent a successful surgery thanks to the financial assistance, and his owner was able to take Doofus home to live out his happy life.

Todd's Story

Todd arrived at the animal hospital lethargic and in pain after his owner noticed he was straining in the litter box and yelping out in extreme discomfort. The veterinarians at the hospital diagnosed a urethral obstruction and kidney failure. Todd was treated medically and responded really well, but a few days later became obstructed again. Todd's owner had recently been laid off and was unable to afford Todd's medical bills. The VetBros Pet Education Charitable Fund provided financial assistance to help cover the costs to treat Todd's condition. Todd's surgery was successful, and he is living a great life with his owner who is so thankful she could get Todd the care he needed.
